Violence against women is gender discriminatory behavior that can cause physical, mental, or emotional harm in any form and can turn into verbal or physical violence in any situation.

Today we have gathered all kinds of violence against women because nothing is secondary: everything is the result of ongoing discrimination and gender discrimination against women under laws or practices; personal or physical from degradation or discrimination. Sexual assault or murder, all of which is a manifestation of the need for change, is a very serious problem that needs to be addressed in order to achieve true equality between people.

Similarly, we need to understand what types of violence exist in our society and fight them. Think about it, there is no violence worse than others, because all of these abuses result from discrimination and ultimately lead to physical violence, oppression, and even death.

Violence is a basic concept in the description of social relations between people, concepts of moral and political significance.

Racism and sexuality are actually analyzed as forms of violence that a government or society sect inflicts on certain individuals. From a legal point of view, racism is an important tool for anyone to be pressured to recognize that racism is a form of violence, despite any physical harm to the victim of racist behavior. behavior racism.

On the other hand, since it is usually difficult to assess psychological harm (usually who knows that a woman is really suffering because of the sexual immorality of acquaintances rather than personal problems), critics of psychological violence try to find an easy way to forgive.

However, while it is difficult to distinguish the causes that occur in the psychological field, any discriminatory attitudes do not doubt the psychological pressure on agents: such feelings are well known to all people from childhood.

The Law on the Protection of Women from Oppression and Violence and the Law on the Guarantees of Equal Rights and Opportunities for Women and Men protect women not only orally, but also. Despite the adoption of these laws, the pressure and violence against women in Uzbekistan is growing day by day. women remain victims.

Article 3 of the Law of the Republic of Uzbekistan "On Protection of Women from Oppression and Violence" lists four types of violence. These include physical, sexual, mental and economic violence. At the same time, the concept of "oppression" has emerged.

In the world practice, the protection order, which appeared in 1996 and has been established in 126 countries so far, was adopted on September 2, 2019 in Uzbekistan together with the Law on Protection of Women from Oppression and Violence. was introduced.

Only questions that sharply separate those who argue about violence. On the one hand, there are those who see physical violence as the highest form of violent action: the fight against psychological violence through physical violence exacerbates violence.
