Researching the problems of forming the spiritual and moral consciousness of students on a large scale is becoming an urgent issue. In this regard, publication of monographs, pamphlets, collections of scientific and theoretical importance, advocacy of doctor's and candidate's theses will certainly bear fruit in the future. Therefore, it is important to research the conceptual basis of the impact of globalization on the spiritual and moral consciousness of students. Because, in the scientific-theoretical and methodological literature, various aspects of this problem have not been comprehensively and perfectly analyzed [1]. In the conditions of globalization, the change of ideas about raising the spiritual and moral consciousness of students and young people gives rise to various controversial opinions about their nature and forms of manifestation. This situation calls for clarifying the content of these concepts and developing their scientifically based definitions, relying on the results of scientific research achieved within the field of philosophy and ethics.

Today's globalization process affects all aspects of social life, especially young people. On the one hand, this is a general, natural process. Because students and young people are aware of the environment of the current information society through various factors. But their level of ideological immunity to values may be different. Frequent holding of spiritual-educational activities, meetings, conversations in the minds of some young people in order to prevent the appearance of behavior, unhealthy ideas, tendencies to values that do not correspond to the national-spiritual values of the people. need to be maintained. This is related to the following: First, in the process of globalization, the dangers and threats that threaten the spiritual life of our society are manifested in a unique form, and their influence is increasing day by day. As stated in the decision No. 3160 of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan "On increasing the effectiveness of spiritual and educational work and raising the development of the field to a new level" dated July 28, 2017, "Today, globalization processes are intensifying in the world, new threats and threats against peace and stability are increasing. Such a complex and dangerous situation calls for a critical evaluation of the work carried out in the field and improvement of its activities based on the requirements of the times." We should also emphasize the activities of the President in the field of ensuring international peace. "As an initiative, we propose to establish a special international fund to support education in Afghanistan. The main goal of this is to help the Afghan side in the preparation of national personnel in the fields that are in great demand in the country, and the allocation of scholarships and grants for talented students and young scientists. All this, without a doubt, helps to protect the growing young generation from the ideology of violence and radicalism»[2]. As the head of our state Shavkat Mirziyoyev noted:

"It is clear to all of you that today, unfair competition, contradictions and conflicts are becoming more and more acute on the world scale.

Threats such as religious extremism, terrorism, drug addiction, human trafficking, illegal migration, and "mass culture" are increasing and are undermining the beliefs and family values that have been practiced by mankind for centuries.

That such and many other threats cause serious problems in human life is a fact, and no one can deny it" [3]. (in the attachment, the results of a survey conducted on November 5-20, 2018 to study the spiritual image of students of higher educational institutions (87) in our country. See the third picture in the attachment, the content of "extremism" is revealed).

The President of the Republic of Uzbekistan Shavkat Mirziyoyev, speaking about the activities of the United Nations, proposed to increase the number of member states of the Security Council for its stable work in the future. Also, the head of our state proposed the adoption of the UN Convention on the Rights of Youth at the UN platform, taking into account the presence of the largest youth group in the history of mankind. The President of the country justified this by the fact that the number of young people has exceeded two billion, and the need to protect young people at a time when international terrorism and extremism are growing rapidly. After all, the means of globalization create an opportunity for the wide spread of "mass culture". It affects the Uzbek people's thinking, music, clothing, interactions, family, family relationships, and even their dreams. The ideological landfills that are conducting moral subversion against us are sparing nothing to achieve their goal, they are using all means, spending a lot of money, using the most modern methods, to attract young people. organizes shows, entertainment shows, music channels. Destructive ideas are propagated through such sources, and worst of all, they are seen and watched by our gullible, impressionable youth who do not yet understand the difference between black and white. This means that the system of "mass culture", its products, a unique way of protecting our youth has been formed, which means that the fight against them must become our daily practical work. Therefore, if our students do not rely on national values in their worldview, completely foreign values take place in their minds and thinking. A contemptuous view of one's own national values is formed. Therefore, in the process of working with the young generation, it is necessary to take these situations into account. In particular, a rational study of the current state of young people's attitude to national and universal values will help to determine which values are more important in their practical activities. The main goal is to strengthen their trust and faith in national-cultural heritage and values. That is why today the formation of a clear position in the outlook of students and young people, in their attitude to national values, is one of the most urgent issues.

In the process of globalization, students and young people fall under the negative influence of information that is completely foreign to "popular culture", the nation and the country. In order to prevent such threats, it is necessary to strengthen work in the field of "...culture and enlightenment," says the President of Uzbekistan Sh.M. Mirziyoev, "and to educate young people in the spirit of national and universal values." This is a vital task for all of us today»[4].

Also Sh.M. Mirziyoev UN General Assembly

In his speech at the 72nd session, he justified the need to develop the international convention "On the rights of youth" and said, "The future of our planet and its well-being depend on how our children grow up to be human beings. Our main task is to create the necessary conditions for young people to show their potential, to prevent the spread of the "virus" of the idea of violence" [5], he said. Today's main task is to educate the young generation on the basis of national and universal values, to form in their hearts feelings of loyalty to their people, homeland, to warn and protect them from informational attacks of various destructive forces.
