

PHOTOGRAPHY AND CHILDREN

Vakhtang Egiazarov
vakhofx@gmail.com

Annotation: Along with technological development, children are also developing. Childhood age is the age when the child learns new information easily Appropriates. Studying photography is very important for a child for development. At this time, the process of photographing the child's thinking It promotes self-esteem and increases self-confidence.

Child development is a complex and multifaceted process. All A child has an innate curiosity. of this natural property Thanks to this, he easily assimilates a lot of new information. This is necessary stimulating curiosity so that it takes on a creative character, which will help the child to develop hidden skills and talents.

Photography is part of the daily life of today's teenagers. Photography has become one of the forms of communication between them They send, share photos, like and share. photography too It is an interesting and magical process, when a person changes his thoughts, He sees the physical realization of ideas. Modern photography It is an important part of a child's intellectual development, while Camera is a good way to communicate with people. of photography Study promotes the development of thinking, requires practical and Strategic thinking, increases motivation, improves and strengthens the child's relationship with the environment helps the child in self-esteem, to perceive beautiful colors and create beauty. Photography develops the ability of imagination, which is very important for a child for development. A photo camera is a copy of the human eye, which is exact It works like the human eye and the image is exactly the same It turns out as the photographer sees.

Teaching photography to a child is a great way to encourage them is the way It is a unique way to express the emotions that they feel they like how they see the world around them. So, it will be for them Fun and interesting activities that will enable them to show these feelings to society without using words. The child wants to form the ability to interact with the world and know others Finding ways to show them in a unique light. it will become an excellent exercise for their development and taste formation. Them You can get to know the child through the pictures taken by Ask the person what he took, why he took it, and what he did during the taking liked, what he wants to share with the public with the pictures taken, label each picture so that he himself understands what it is He also wants to portray. First of all, choose a simple and cheap camera for the child, because as a rule, children are not careful, especially when For the first time, they start interacting with the camera. Teach the child about the camera Hold it well and firmly in your hand. It is necessary to teach shooting Different positions depending on what you want to shoot and the camera It can be held in a vertical or horizontal position as desired. Be an example to him, take pictures with him. you can You suggest some topics to shoot, for example: shoot Flowers, a bird perched on a tree, an airplane in the sky, trees in the park, Zoo animals, crowded street, home decoration Items, friends, and so on, the options are endless. Teach the child Taking pictures, because he went out on the street to take photos, exactly He doesn't know what unexpected subject he will meet to shoot, so he has to be always attentive so as not to miss the interesting shots. Keep in mind that it is very important for the child himself Try your own abilities, give yourself a chance Independently choose the objects to be photographed. In order to be encouraged by him Print out the photos and place them in a visible place in the room Display it for all to see. The most important thing is that Is that this passion of the child can become professional in the future to grow into an interest in photography.